The 20th century began with Noel Coward and Terence Rattigan, but by the 21st century both playwrights had fallen out of fashion.

The post-war revolution saw the rise of the ' Angry Young Men' A breakthrough came in the 1960s with John Osborne's Look Back in Anger. This new naturalistic style of acting was a revolution in theatre, and Osborne was quickly followed by others including Harold Pinter, Joe Orton, Edward Bond and Tom Stoppard. Another golden age of theatre had begun.
